Building trades set to enter State-Sierra Club I-580 Suit

A consortium of construction-related industries is expected to join the State of California in its legal battle with the Sierra Club over the widening of Interstate 580.

A source close to the industry reported late Tuesday afternoon that the Alameda County Building Trades Council had filed an intervening suit on behalf of the state and federal government and that other construction-related groups were expected to do the same this week.

The source also said the intervening parties will not only be labor-related but will include mangement as well.

The Sierra Club suit, which was filed in United States District Court April 15, seeks to block the decade-old plan to widen I-580 through the Dublin Canyon for environmental reasons.

Action by the construction industry has been rumored since that litigation was filed, but, until Tuesday, no definite steps had been taken.

Attorneys for the Sierra Club are reportedly meeting with state and federal government legal representatives this week on the suit but whether that meeting is for the purpose of setting a hearing date or attempting to work out a compromise is not known.

Construction bids on the $110 million projpct are scheduled to be opened three weeks from today but the Sierra Club litigation has thrown that schedule into doubt.

The project, which has been approved by the U.S. department of Transportation, the California Department of Transportation and the Metropolitan Transportation Commission, would provide for eight traffic lanes through the 10-mile Dublin Canyon plus a mass transit median.

Opponents to the project have contended a six-lane widening would be sufficient while the eight lanes will induce further growth intoe)ar area that is already plagued with poor air quality.

'Mayday' plan to provide for emergencies and births

LIVERMORE - Valley Memorial Hospital's "Mayday" plan — to go into effect at midnight tonight — will provide medical treatment for emergencies and all births, according to Dr David Mandeville, speaking on behalf of the hospital's physicians.

An emergency will be defined as a medical or surgical situation threatening to life or limb or capable of causing irreparable damage, said Mandeville.

"Mayday" begins May 1, the day malpractice insurance for doctors in seven Northern California counties, including Alameda, Contra Costa and San Francisco, nearly quadruples.

Not affected by the professional liability insurance renewal crisis are doctors in Santa Clara and San Joaquin Counties and the two Alameda County-run hospitals — Highland General in Oakland and Fairmont in San Leandro. Both will have back-up services ready for emergencies normally handled by other facilities.

The Family Health Care Center in San Ramon also will be open for business as usual, as will Children's Hospital in Oakland and all VA and Kaiser-Permanente hospitals.

According to Mandeville, VMH will set up a referral service and will pay for malpractice insurance to cover eight emergency handle the fields. Doctors will rotate to emergencies.

Elective surgery of any kind is closed until further notice, he added.

Mandeville addressed the city council meeting Monday night following an emergency meeting by the doctor with the VMH medical staff.

A poll of those physicians present showed that 27 had not secured any professional liability insurance, eight had secured the insurance but morally were in sympathy with other doctors and would not do business as usual, and six had secured insurance and would continue their practice as usual, said Mandeville.

The doctor explained the problem of rising malpractice insurance costs to the council, noting that "the crisis is going to deepen."

Council voted to send letters to the city's representatives in Sacramento and to the governer, urging them to resolve the situation.

Mandeville left the council a list of bills in the legislative mill dealing with the malpractice insurance problem. After studying the bills, council will decide which — if any — to endorse on behalf of local physicians.

To refuse VCSD joint grant

City moves toward sewer construction

PLEASANTON - In an effort to retain control over a basic municipal function, the city council took the first step Monday night towards its long-talked-of goal of building its own sewer treatment plant.

The move was preliminary but its message was clear.

In two separate actions, the council:

√ Indicated it would refuse to accept a grant for consolidation with the Valley Community Services District if proposed strict air quality conditions are attatched; and √ Authorized an application to the Regional Water Quality Control Board for establishment of discharge requirements for a new Pleasanton sewer plant.

That action stems from the council's increasing frustration with the State Water Resources Control Board and the Environmental Protection Agency — the two agencies which have the final say over whether any grant money will be provided.

The city has consistently maintained an expansion of the VCSD plant to anything less than eight million gallons a day capacity would be "unacceptable" because of commitments Pleasanton made to developers in the 1960's.

Even that amount of capacity would not allow for much additional growth beyond those commitments, city officials claim.

The SWRCB last week indicated it would allow funding for an expansion to 6.5 mgd, which city officials claim is less than the capacity the two plants are capable of serving now. (The maximum hydraulic capacity of the VCSD plant is 5 mgd and the Pleasanton plant could handle 1.7 mgd.)

Even if the EPA is willing to accept that 6.5 mgd figure — and there are indications that because of air quality in the valley it may not — the state has told Pleasanton and VCSD it would require agreement to a stringent air quality condition before any grant money at all would be approved.

That proposed air quality condition — which will be the subject of hearings in Sacramento and Los Angeles May 12 — would prohibit any new sewer connections after Dec. 1, 1976, unless the city:

√ Agreed to a yet-to-be-determined air mintenance plan;

√ Agreed to comply with "mitigation measures" that have not yet been formulated; and √ Could prove that "emission growth" generated by the new connections would not prevent achievement of that maintenance plan.

City officials were unanimous in their opposition to that condition Monday. "It is a back-door approach to put teeth into the Clean Air Act," City Manager Bill Edgar said. "They are using water grants to clean up the air."

Harvey Banks, the city's watchdog sewer consultant, likened acceptance of that condition to "signing a blank check to do whatever the Air Resources Board might impose" and Assistant City Manager Al Campbell said he could not "in good conscience" recommend acceptance of a grant under those terms.

By attaching such strings, Banks added, "The EPA, in its zeal to not make the air pollution problem worse, is, in effect, prolonging the water pollution problem."

In a statement less pithy but equally as vehement, Mayor Ed Kinney said, "We must tell all those people who are wagging their fingers at us that we cannot tolerate these kinds of guidelines."

Edgar will convey the council's unanimous position to a meeting with state water board officials on Thursday and the city will also make a presentation at the May 12 hearing.

Council ok's two park contracts

Pleasanton - The city council approved construction contracts for two major park projects and gave Richard Burge permission to add a second story to a commercial building Monday night.

Councilman Bill Herlihy opposed the contract award for the second phase of the Youth Sports Park because he said he "felt nervous" about awarding the contract to an "unknown who has no record".

By a 4-1 vote, the contract was given to R.E.G., Inc. of Hayward whose $89,412.52 bid was the lowest of 15 received. Because that bid was some $23,000 less than the engineer's estimate, Herlihy said he was uncomfortable with it. "Ninety-five percent of those bids were between $105,000 and $119,000," he said. "I wonder why his was so low."

Director of Engineering Services Don Sooby explained the firm was fairly new and "his overhead is maybe not as high as the others." He added performance bonds would be required.

Councilman Bob Philcox said, "I'm delighted his bid was so low. I don't think we should discourage low bids."

The project, which should be completed in mid-August will include turfing and irrigation of 15 acres at the Sports Park and construction of a 70-car parking lot.

The council also awarded the construction contract for the Cultural Arts Center to Chalet Construction of Hayward. The bid, the lowest of eight, was for $101,482, $1,482 more than had been allocated. The council agreed to use revenue sharing funds to make up the difference.

That contract will not allow for cabinets, counter tops and a patio fence, but Mayor Ed Kinney urged the community to work together to put in those finishing touches on a volunteer basis.

Councilwoman Joyce LeClaire expressed satisfaction that a facility for an "area long neglected is finally coming to pass. The contract was awarded unanimously.

SECOND STORY OK'D

Richard Burge's five-month struggle for permission to add a second story to a commercial building at the Valley Plaza Shopping Center ended successfully for him Monday night.

The council approved that addition by a 3-2 vote after considerable discussion.

Because Burge's building is part of a Planned Unit Development that was approved in 1972, any modification to it needed council approval.

After beginning construction on the building, he made necessary changes to allow the second story if he could get approval.

The planning commission first denied his application.

Case involving Cole closed, police confirm

PLEASANTON — City police confirmed today that the case involving Michael Cole "has been closed and is not being pursued further." Cole, 20, was cleared of any responsibility following an accident on April 19 which took the life of Michael Compton, 17. Cole was driving that vehicle when it overturned into a canal off of Hopyard Road.

The district attorney's office also confirmed that "charges were not filed against Mr. Cole for lack of sufficient evidence." Cole had been detained by Pleasanton police immediately following the accident, but then was released pending investigation of the case.

Dubliner pegged new Amador trustee

DUBLIN - Wayne Barnes, a 44 year old Dublin resident, was appointed Tuesday night to fulfill the unexpired term of fellow Dublin resident Bert Hersevoort on the Amador Valley Joint High School District board.

A supervising computer system analyst with Pacific Gas and Electric' Company, Barnes appointment was indicated in Tuesday's edition of the Times. He will serve two years and two months.

Barnes and his wife, Valerie, have five children, two at Frederickson School, two at Dublin High and one at Chabot College.

Barnes is active in Dublin High Boosters' activities, a member of the Dublin-San Ramon Lions Club, a cubmaster and Husband of the Year in 1968 as named by the Dublin Junior Women's Club.

The new appointee cannot take part in any board actions for one month.

Following the appointment, a presentation was made to Mayor Miller, a former member of the board who was saluted for his nine years of service before losing in a bid for reelection last month.

Hank Schneider of the Sunol Glen School District board presented details in its tax increase measure scheduled for the May 27 ballot. The measure calls for a 43 cent hike from $2.07 to $2.50, for 1975-76 if approved by a simple majority of voters.

Amador trustees held off action on awarding bid on the Amador Valley High School security lighting project.

Following the special board session, the Amador Valley District administration formally joined with students and faculty of Valley High School to dedicate the new facility. The buildings are located on Dublin Boulevard.

Not guilty plea in drug bust

LIVERMORE - Charges against one of three persons held following last Wednesday's cocaine arrests were dismissed "in the interest of justice" Monday, while not guilty pleas were entered on behalf of the others.

Judge John A. Lewis dismissed charges of possession of cocaine for sale and maintenance of a place where drugs are sold against Kim Celli, 20, while her husband, David, 20, along with Barbara Cutchen, 19, pleaded not guilty.

David Celli is charged with possession of cocaine for sale and maintenance of a place where drugs are sold, and Cutchen with possession of one-quarter gram of cocaine, amphetamines, and visiting a place where drugs are kept.

Four other persons, Patricia Cainglit, 21, Ronald Harold, 23, Anthony Schmidt, 24, and Anthony Perry, 22, also were arrested following the raid at the Cellis' 492 Rincon Ave. home, and are scheduled to appear May 1.

Cainglit, 21, was in the Cellis home at the time of the raid, according to police, and was arrested for possession of marijuana and released on $1,000 bail.

Schmidt and Perry were cited for visiting a place where drugs are kept and released.

According to police, Harold walked in carrying three ounces of cocaine15 minutes after the raid began.

Vice and intelligence detective Dan Killeen believes enough "associative evidence" has been discovered to show Harold "came to deliver the cocaine (for sale) to the Cellis."

He was arrested for possession of cocaine for sale and "visiting," and released on $8,200 bail.

Seven Livermore policemen led by Killeen raided the Cellis home shortly after 7:15 p.m. Apr. 23, on a warrant issued by Judge Lewis.

Cainglit was in the house visiting the Cellis, according to police, and Cutchen, Schmidt and Perry walked in some 30 minutes later.

The arrests climaxed a two month investigation by local police that began with a "small purchase," Killeen said, and graduated through a chain of larger purchases.

Council split on area agency

PLEASANTON - Mayor Ed Kinney will not be taking a unanimous view on the proposed Bay Area Planning Agency to the Alameda County Mayors' Conference next Wednesday.

The city council split 3-2 Monday night on whether that proposal would be "better than what we have now" or would create a monster.

Assemblyman John Konx's bill, AB 625, has been in and out of the legislative hopper for eight years but it appears this year may see the formation — by legislative fiat — of some kind of consolidated agency.

As proposed, the Knox bill would consolidate the planning functions of the Metropolitan Transportation Commission, the Bay Area Sewage Services Agency, the Bay Conservation and Development Commission, the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District and the Regional Water Quality Control Board into one 50-member area-wide agency.

One of the most controversial amendments to that bill is a provision for a chief executive officer or "super mayor" which smaller communities fear would lead to a weighting of the agency in favor of the Bay Area's three metropolitan giants.

Many communities have also objected to the bill's provision for control over land use which would negate the decision-making powers of local governments.

The three council members who supported AB 625 — Bill Herlihy, Bob Philcox and Roger McLain — objected strenuously to those two amendments.

City Manager Bill Edgar had urged support of the bill because, he said, "We've got regional government now and we have it in a multiplicity of agencies. We look at this bill (exclusive of those two controversial amendments) as a reorganization of that regional government."

Mayor Ed Kinney, who along with Councilwoman Joyce LeClaire, indicated their opposition to the bill, said, "I am very concerned with any bill that is 67 pages long." He added, it is "impossible for me to fathom a 50-member governing board."

LeClaire said she objected to the land use provisions which "in effect, say, we can do anything we want as long as it is OK with them."

She added, even without that provision and the "super mayor" clause, "I am reluctant to support it at all. We have a terrible situation now but I hate to.support it on the basis that what we have now is so bad anything has got to be better."

Accreditation granted VMA

Valley Memorial Hospital received word late Tuesday that it will retain its full accreditation.

That word was telephoned to VMH Administrator Tom Andrews by the Chicago-based Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals which last August had voted to revoke that accreditation.

Following that decision, which came after the joint commission had conducted a survey at VMH, the hospital requested another survey.

Since a date could not be arranged, VMH started a formal appeal process and a hearing was held in February.

Since February, the hospital has been awaiting a final decision on the accreditation question. The telephone call Tuesday ended the suspense as officials learned the hospital has retained its full accreditation.

That accreditation will run from the date of the survey last August until Aug. 5, of this year at which time another survey will be taken to determine if the hospital will retain its status beyond Aug. 5, 1975.

Hospital accreditation is not a legal requirement for operation but it indicates to the public that a hospital which receives accreditation meets the high standards of the joint commission.

Repeating that air pollution statement

(On Sunday The Times carried what we considered to be an important statement on the causes and the impact of air pollution throughout the Bay Area. Some rather extensive computer errors in setting that editorial left much of the subject matter unintelligible. That full statement is therefore reprinted here.)

If the quality of our atmosphere is to become the one firm standard from which all other values as to style of living, transportation, tax rates and the economy are to be determined, then it is time we all had a better idea as to just what "smog" is, and what we can do about it. There is very little agreement among "the experts" on those key points, and what they do know is not understood by the public.

This reporter was privileged to share a 90 - minute conversation with one of the more knowledgeable Bay Area authorities on the atmosphere. What we learned from that conversation, and from some related sources, is just enough to convince us that the air is full of misinformation on the subject of pollution.

Dario A. Levaggi holds the important post of Director of Technical Services for the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District. It is his staff which measures and records the pollutants which range back and forth through these nine counties. Levaggi is a "lifetime crusader" in the battle against Bay Area pollution; but he is also a realist who knows our limitations in that struggle.

"Air pollution will always be with us whenever you gather a million or more people together" ... "Given our sophisticated society, it is impossible to imagine removing smog, even if we were to transplant an entire American city to the middle of the Sahara Desert" ... "The Environmental Protection Agency told us how to meet their federal standards for clean air, but that answer would place most of us on the bread lines." Levaggi is one expert who isn't afraid to tackle smog for what it really is ... " a blending of all kinds of gases and suspended particles, some created by nature and over which we have very little control."

The "oxidant" factor in "smog" is just one such element. Nature provides us with up to three parts per million of that particular "pollutant." This valley has — in 1973 — recorded "highest hourly average" of 22 parts per million. The result of just this one reading was a valley rating "exceeding the state standard on 63 days" of that one year.

It is only in this one oxidant reading that the valley exceeds those standards. In all other pollutant factors — carbon monoxide, nitrogent dioxidex sulphur dioxide — the valley had zero days when we exceeded those same state and federal standards.

Where does this pollutant come from? "By measuring the wind velocity and other atmospheric factors, we know that your valley will have one day perfectly free of pollution, followed by a day heavy with pollution. From this we can conclude that most of your air pollution is transported," Levaggi states. In other words, "about three fourths" of the valley's smog flows in from other Bay Area points.

What is the major source of man - made pollution? The gasoline - burning vehicle, the experts have concluded. "We have imposed just about all the controls available on industry — there is very little more we can do in that area," Levaggi states. The EPA saw this, suggesting that something like 85 percent of all vechicular miles travelled be abolished. Even if the economy could withstand such a change, would the people accept it? That question was put to residents of San Diego — where air pollution is admittedly becoming critical. 65 percent of those interviewed opposed limiting the number of cars per family; 72 percent opposed gasoline rationing; 88 percent rejected higher gasoline taxes as a means of curbing that use. "People are reluctant to make changes in their lifestyles necessary to solve the problem." that survey concluded.

Despite all this, the facts show that the combined efforts of science and government and a concerned public have fought smog to a standstill. The pollution curve throughout the Bay Area, and including this valley, is "definitely on the down side." If it looks like smog is not going to get any worse, neither is there much hope for making vast inroads on that problem. Not without banning auto travel throughout the Bay Area, or relocating several millions of us to places like Crescent City and San Luis Obispo, there to start the pollution cycle all over again.

Given that kind of understanding, we might at least be able to approach this one valley's future with some degree of realism, including acceptance of our role within the total Bay Area ... its economy, its blessings and its problems. If this is no longer Shangri-La, it is still one of the more attractive spots on earth. There are some among us who insist on struggling for one, without ever accepting the other.

"Is the world getting bigger or is he shrinking?"

Hindsight/Foresight

Can we afford refugees?

Just where does it say we must now absorb any part of the South Vietnamese population now that the soldiers representing a foreign (to our form of government) ideology have overrun that land area!

This writer has nothing against individual families adopting orphans of a war-torn country. It is a warm and benevolent act that I'm sure we all admire.

But what is going to become of those thousands and thousands of refugees in the "tent citys"?

Are they all going to be absorbed by this country?

Early estimates, via the wire services, indicate that well over 100,000 Vietnamese refugees will be coming to this country..... the largest percentage to California to temporary locales such as a huge "tent city" being erected at Camp Pendleton.

Their was even a thought that Camp Parks might be used!

What boggles the mind on this subject is the factthis country is going through a severe recession, caused to somedegree by the billions we've thrown down the drain in tryingto bail out a corrupt administration and people who long since had grown tired of war and foreign intervention.

Must we continue to try'n save the world when we're doing a dismal job of keeping our own body politic in smooth working order!

A few weeks ago, when the first Vietnamese orphans were being flown into Oakland via World Airways, a demonstration in San Francisco's Union Square gained some notoriety. You may have seen television coverage of it.

Seems the protestors were calling attention to the alleged "abducting" of Vietnamese citizens to this country, claiming the U.S. government was by-this-act attempting to destroy the fibre of South Vietnam. On the surface this is an absurd complaint. What the protestors apparently believe is that orphans and refugees alike should not be taken from their war-torn country but allowed to live under the impending communist regime.

It is one thing to go through channels (a legitimate adoption agency) to take in an orphan, but something quite different to try and absorb thousands upon thousands of refugees who are in a panic, believing they'll be swallowed up by an advancing horde.

Are there not other countries that have the compassion and wherewithal to take in refugees? Is this our way of expressing some sort of national guilt over the entire Vietnam episode? If so, the national psyche is really in bad shape, no doubt fostered by such clear-headed thinkers as Pete McCloskey and George McGovern.

This writer, for one, feels no guilt over our INITIAL assistance in Vietnam. It's what happened when Kennedy and Johnson started spending our billions of tax dollars that I find particularly disgusting.

What is worrisome now, under the present administration, is how many of these refugees will be permitted to come into this country. Does anyone care to guess how much these people will cost in tax dollars? Is there any sort of plan on how these people are going to be successfully integrated into our society? What about schooling and jobs when the predominant number of young refugees start into the school years?

Do we just put them on a new "aid to needy refugees" program (federally-funded of course) and keep them healthy and happy until they can be returned to their native land some day.

Until this country can work its way out of the unemployment and skyrocketing prices predicament (not to mention the attendant problems of crime and abomitable government), we have no place trying to take in hundreds of thousands of refugees.

round the town

The Pentagon clarified a confusing local story today by firmly stating that Camp Parks will/will not (choose one) be converted to a giant refugee camp to house Vietnam refugees.

After 30 years, you would think that an entire generation of valley residents would know what to expect from that federal spread which sits uncertainly on the fringes of Dublin and Pleasanton. We should expect the unexpected, that's what.

It was a bright fall day in October of 1942 when ranchers on the valley's north side first phoned this newspaper with wild reports of "a huge number of machines out here stirring up the ground, making a terrible noise." That, dear friends, was the very first word that the local populace had on our government's grand plan for 3600 acres of "marginal grazing land" reaching north from Highway 50, bounded by Dougherty Road and Tassajara Valley, and spilling over into Contra Costa County's rolling hills. The ranchers were told to get off . . "there will be a government man located in Pleasanton who will settle up any claims." The military moved onto the land. And in just a few unbelievable weeks, the rural confines of Jose' Amador's peaceful valley were wedged into the 20th century. Nothing has been the same since.

The Seabees came first. A nice bunch of para - Naval folks who were just civilian enough to make their entry understandable to the locals. Later, they acquired another 400 acres closer to Tassajara Road, there to build "the largest TB hospital on the west coast." That maze of one - level corridors was something to behold. It was also an administrator's nightmare. One nurse, setting out from the apex of that maze, could not walk through all the corridors in a single work day. Leastwise, not a Civil Service work day. The skeleton still remains. Would make a great tour for the Historical Society, some rainy weekend,.

The southeast corner of that military complex was named "Camp Shoemaker," for reasons still unclear. That area was later to be acquired for "Alameda County's Santa Rita Rehabilitation Center," for reasons that are likewise still unclear.

The story of the military compound's passage through Naval, Air Force and Military Air Transport use — each matching a chapter in the nation's militaristic ventures — is well known. What is not recorded are the scintilating side lights which have always made valley residency so interesting during "Our Life With Camp Parks."

* * *

Perhaps the amazing thing is that the rural hamlets of Livermore, Pleasanton and Dublin — representing a grand total of less than 8000 civilians during those Word War II days — were allowed to survive at all. Camp Parks at its peak had something over 40,000 people on board. Two movie theaters. The valley's only bowling alleys. Two olympian swimming pools. And a gymnasium that could seat 5000 — and often did, for what would become the cream of inter - service boxing matches. It would be a later revival of that same fisticuff emphasis that would produce a promising young amateur name of George Foreman. But that's another story."

Since we were outmanned and outgunned anyway, the civilian populace which shared the valley scene with that military colussus did the only sensible thing — we joined 'em. And what a marriage that was!

Dinner and dancing at the officer's club, bingo parties that paid off with sets of luggage and cameras . . for a 50 cent card. And 40 - cent drinks that would curl your chevrons. It was a swinging scene, let me tell you. There were periodic breaks, when the base was abandoned by one military branch, only to be grabbed up by another branch. Each time an outgoing commander left, they staged a wing - ding of a party. When the new head honcho arrived, they had another one. We had to attend each and every affair as a matter of civilian courtesy. But many a local liver was lost in the cause, let me assure you.

As the Air Force emphasis began to dwindle—we had made our peace with the North Koreans—the Military Air Transport Service was moved in to fill the breach. It was only after they had revamped those buildings again, including removal of all that dirt from the olympic - size pool, that the Pentagon realized they had located the world's biggest user of air transport onto a base that had no landing field. ("What do they call it an 'Air Base' for if it had no air field ?", demanded an irate general. The answer is still being processed.)

When the Pentagon wasn't shuffling our tax dollars around Camp Parks, the personnel thereon were taking up the slack. Once they shuffled so many dollars and phony payroll checks that the result almost wrecked the valley's economy. We called it "the Chicken To Go scandal." A modest little chicken vendor on Livermore's East Avenue fronted for the organization. Bogus checks issued through the Camp Parks' ring were funnelled past the fried chicken house's books. Local business houses and banks wound up getting stuck eventually — to the tune of something over $50,000. Congress finally had to pass special legislation to compensate us for most of it. Some merchants went broke before the feds could get around to settling up. A bad scene all around.

Most of us figured it was just one more chapter in "The Perils of Camp Parks." Even a few thousand Vietnamese refugees couldn't shake us now. I wonder if they play bingo?

Almost two weeks ago we got on the subject of smoking at sports and theatrical events . . . and how prodigious amounts of same tended to turn us off.

It still does . . . the problem being that several paragraphs of our treatise were inadvertently lopped off.

To condense the cut-off graphs, we suggested that the day might come when non-smokers and moderate drinkers would have their own section at the aforementioned events.

We will not hold our breath until this happens, though.

While on the subject of creature comforts, or stifling of same, we are happy to learn that the Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce building on W. Neal Street is about to gain an addition. You might say it's commodious but that would be describing its function rather than its size. 'Nuff said.

What I want to know is can this be reason enough for a ribbon cutting? Or a tissue cutting?

Assemblyman Floyd Mori made the 11 o'clock news on Southland TV Friday night, albeit briefly. The newest member of the legislature was studiously taking notes during an Assembly hearing chaired by Jack Fenton.

The Southland cameras covered a "bust" held over a period of three days at the Los Angeles Sports Arena, a city-owned building that had been rented out to a rock promoter. The LAPD did what we believe was an exceptional job of alerting concert-goers to the fact they were not going to permit anyone with drugs or alcohol (or firearms) into the building. What they got, as the cameras duly recorded (though not showing faces) were 350 mostly teenagers either "under the influence," possessing drugs, drunk and-or carrying guns. Plus at least one graphic case of a young girl "OD-ing." The sight of this is certain to shake even the most hardened of drug users.

Do you think police and television would do that say at Kezar or somewhere in Oakland?

I doubt it.

Sound and Fury

The lassie stepped out into the middle of Murrieta Boulevard in Livermore wearing a pair of white slacks with blue checks and a yellow polo shirt, all of which fit perfectly.

Matter of fact they fit so perfectly I almost failed to notice she was wearing a red paddle tennis racket which said "Stop."

Or wait.

Or some other significant message which meant a covey of pint sized human beings were about to cross the street.

The children were about knee high to a small Great Dane. A man could hardly see them over the island curb which divides Murrieta at that poimt.

Fortunately the crossing guard had stepped out in front of me so there was nothing to do but stop. Believe me, I never saw her sign until the youngsters stepped away from the curb and marched out into the middle of the street.

All of which reminded me that the ideal school crossing guard should look not like the lass on Murrieta Boulevard — and believe me the looking was pleasant — but like Frank.

Frank was a butcher by trade, portly, in his middle sixties and with a thick thatch of white hair. He was probably the best man in his business ever to sell meat in Los Gatos, but he was no beauty.

When he told me he was going to retire I was really distressed. I wondered where I was going to get someone to sell me prime cuts of beef at good prices.

Frankly I never found a successor to Frank. His meat market wound up being Gene's Liquors. But I did see the butcher. Frequently.

"If I get the deal I want, I'll retire comfortably," he told me.

Shortly thereafter I discovered what he wanted. Driving into San Jose on the old highway I saw Frank, standing in the middle of the road, red paddle in his hand and escorting a small platoon of youngsters from Blossom Hill School to the other side of the street.

I managed to watch this phenomona without any trouble at all. Read the letters on his sign, saw the children immediately and stopped obediently.

All of which proves, I suppose, I am a sexist. Because you can bet your sweet Post Toasties I did not see the letters, or the sign, carried by the lass on Murrieta Boulevard.

I intend to remain a sexist. Thanking God for the glorious differences between me and the comely lassies which makes me ignore the letters on their paddle and admire their more obvious attributes.

Probably I will be in good company Friday when I join, for a brief time, the lads who are competing in the George A. Spiliotopoulos Golf tournament.

Far be it from me to label the lads who play in the Spiliotopoulos male chauvinist pigs

On the other hand, they do appreciate the opposite sex. Their golf is not exactly exceptional. But they have an eye for beauty and any normal man on this tired old globe knows there is nothing more beautiful in the universe than a well constructed, comely woman.

The Spilio — if you will forgive the abbreviation — is being played Friday at the Sunol Valley Golf Course.

Yep. You read right. The Sunol Valley Golf Course. Alias Victoria Pines.

The golf bar is open and the snack counter and the play is good enough so that no one has complained about rent payments.

There was no Spilio last year.

"We never held it anywhere except Sunol," Ben Fernandez told me. "We play the Spiliotopoulos at Sunol or nowhere."

Last year Sunol was nowhere. A nowhere called Victoria Pines by a strange aggregation of characters headed by one Tony Romano with a lad known as Abe "The Trigger" Chapman lurking in the background.

Faithful to Frank Ivaldi, who may deserve an award for being the most misused man this side of Atlanta, Ga., they suspended the tournament until the fellow who founded the course on which their event was born returned to power.

Ivaldi has been quietly trying to bring the big layout at Sunol back to within reaching, or at least dreaming, distance of the greatness he once envisioned for the golf course.

He has given quite a bit and taken little from his massive investment off Andrade Road.

Ivaldi was never, as has been hinted, the villian of the Sunol story. He was, in all truth, a misused hero whose Achilles heel was his faith in his fellow man. One of the most intelligent men I know, he was used brutally by so many people I am always astounded he ever allowed it to happen.

Friday will be one more step on the comeback trail. A return of the faithful, the men who have always believed in him and who waited patiently for his return to control of the course.

They will play lousy golf. A couple of years ago the winner of the tournament took something like 168 strokes in blind bogey competition.

Then they will join together at a steak barbecue where they will prove their efficiency at the table is on par with their ineptitude on the links.

I won that tournament once. Got myself the trophy for the best performance on the 19th hole. A singular honor, my friends.

After all, anybody can win a golf tournament, but how many excell on that fabled extra hole?

For Wednesday, April 30, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're quite capable today when it comes to handling your personal resources. However, you won't make the most from a career opportunity.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Selling others on your ideas is not your cup of tea today. You'll have to take your time in spelling out the fine points.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your purse is likely to be a mite thin today after you take care of obligations that have finally caught up with you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't make a hasty decision regarding an important matter. Talk it over first with a friend who's had a similar experience.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A goal you've set is within reach today, but you'll waste a lot of time before you zero in on it. Get started early!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You could easily be convinced by friends to do something against your better judgment today. Be careful — price tag could be high.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Before making commitments today, consider what's best for your family to insure future harmony.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you listen to advice from outsiders as opposed to that of one you're closely associated with, you'll be led down the garden path.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't let others capitalize on your efforts. If you do, something that should be coming to you will be diverted to the Johnny-come-latelies.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Avoid teaming up today with someone whose interests are not in tune with yours. This person will only delay what you hope to achieve.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're going to have to overcome stiff opposition to get something accomplished on your terms. Be persistent.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be rational and prudent before making loans today. Indiscretion will minimize your chances of recouping your money.

Your Birthday

April 30, 1975

You will make a major change in plans this year that will better serve your self-interests. Also, an unpleasant tie to the past will be severed.

Opening lead — K ♣

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Hard Luck Joe won the club lead and led the suit right back. When East discarded a spade Joe remarked, "Nothing breaks for me." Then he cashed his ace and king of trumps and led his seven of hearts to dummy's queen. East won with the king and led the suit back. Joe could do nothing better than finesse his 10, lose the second heart trick and score 100 points for his opponents.

Joe had been unlucky. If both opponents had followed to the second club he would have set up enough clubs in dummy for heart discards and made seven. Also if West had held the king of hearts or East the jack, Joe would have lost just one heart trick. But poor Joe had overlooked one slight extra chance.

After East had discarded on the second club, Joe should have led his nine of trumps to dummy's jack. West would have played his singleton 10 and Joe would have had an extra entry to dummy which would have been all he needed.

Just watch the play. A third club ruffed high. The six trumps led and overtaken by dummy's seven. A fourth club ruffed high. A spade dummy's ace. A fifth club ruffed. The queen of spades led and ruffed by dummy's deuce of trumps. The sixth club would now be good and furnish a parking place for one low heart.

Jesperson vs. whammy, Mats win

Bill Jesperson, already burdened with the pressure of a first year player at a key position in a tight pennant race, has to fight off the whammy after leading Granada to a 3-2 EBAL baseball win over Amador Valley yesterday in Pleasanton.

He's been labeled as a youngster with great potential.

"He's a first-year shortstop and he makes all the plays for us," said grateful Granada coach Dennis Berger yesterday. "He's never hurt us once all year, and he's been hitting the ball well the last couple of games. He's gonna be a good one."

That's the clincher. Jesperson, who drove in all three runs and made the crucial play in the field against Amador, has to live with the great expectations while Granada chaces a baseball championship

Yesterday's victory pulled the Matadors within a half game of league leader Monte Vista Granada is tied for second with Livermore at 4-2. The Mats will face Monte Vista Tuesday in Danville. Bob Stoddard will undoubtedly be the starting pitcher.

The senior right hander earned Granada's fourth straight victory with a three-hitter against the Dons. It wasn't vintage Stoddard. The curve ball didn't bend in for strikes, and the fast ball perhaps lacked a touch of oomph.

In fact, Berger toyed with the idea of relieving his ace pitcher after Stoudard walked four and gave up two runs in the first inning. Bob settled down, however, and allowed base runners in only two other innings the rest of the way.

"He warmed up for a half-hour before the game, then he sat down," Berger said. "He just wasn't ready I knew though that when he hit his groove, he'd be tough. It's just a matter of when he hits it."

After yielding the two runs on Ed Bevilacqua's rocket double into the left field corner, Stoddard found his rythym. He had one other difficult moment in the third inning, but was saved by Jesperson.

Brett Boldrini's double and a walk to Bevilacqua put Amador runners at first and second with one out in the bottom of the third inning, with Granada leading, 3-2. Jeff Terry came up and slapped the ball up the middle to Jesperson. The shortstop stepped on second to force Bevilacqua, then rifled to first base, completing the double play.

Amador moved one more runner as far as second base in the sixth inning, but Stoddard escaped unscathed. For te game he struck out six, and walked six.

Losing pitcher Rob Wicks limited Granada to four hits, but was sabotaged by his own wildness. Wicks walked four men, and three of thise base runners scored.

Consecutive bases on balls with one out in the first inning set up Jesperson's first big moment, a two-run triple that skipped past Bevilacqua in left field.

In the third inning Jesperson drov in the final run after a walk to pave Spencer and a single by Dave O'Brian. His third time up Jesperson lined out to Bevilacqua.

Jesperson had been shuttling up and down the Granada batting order, from second to seventh, but seemed at home in the fifth spot. "We've been getting our two-three-four men on base quite a bit, but we've had no production from our fifth man," Berger said. "I've been juggling that spot quite a bit and this was Bill's first game batting fifth."

The win marked the sixth straight time in EBAL play that a Granada game has been decided by one run. "I'm getting tired of them," Berger said, "but the players are getting used to it. They've been playing well under pressure."

Finerty fine for six Wolves pass Dublin

Six innings of no-hit relief pitching by Kevin Finerty, combined with the gradual erosion of their opponent's fielding skills, gave the San Ramon Wolves a 4-3 EBAL victory over Dublin in an eight-inning cartoon yesterday in Danville.

The winning tally came with two out in the bottom of the extra frame, as a passed ball by Gael catcher Matt Billy allowed Greg Bishop to score from third, sliding under pitcher John Prieto's tag at the plate.

Finerty took over for starter Tim Nelson in the third, after Nelson had yielded a lead-off double to Dave Anderson. Finerty faced the minimum — 18 batters — as Jerry Puertas, who reached first on an error, was gunned down by catcher Paul Miller when he attempted to steal second in the fourth inning.

The diminutive Wolf lefthander struck out six and walked none, offering the Gaels a good mixture of puzzling curves and fastballs on the corners.

The Gaels scrambled for one run in the first inning and two more in the second off Nelson, who gave up four hits before leaving.

The Wolves, on the other hand, pecked slowly at Prieto, who even taunted with a smattering of lifeless knuckle balls in the fifth and sixth innings.

But it took them until the seventh to come up with the proper combination of bizarre events to send the game into overtime.

Sophomore rightfielder Bishop , who was 3-for-4 off Prieto, led off with a double. Charlie Brice followed with a lazy pop-up to short center, which Gael shortstop Sean Mays dropped.

Steve Krekel bounced one directly at secondbaseman Robin Sherwood, who booted the ball as Bishop scored. Brice was gunned down trying for the plate after the miscue.

With Speck at third and Krekel having advanced to second, Miller placed a squeeze bunt 10 feet in front of the plate. Prieto dribbled it three times with his bare hand as Speck scored the tying run.

Ed Aitken tried to bring Krekel home via the same route, but Aitken's placement was a pop to Prieto which turned the suicide squeeze into an easy double play.

Dublin went queitly in the top of the eigth, before the Wolves rallied with two out to win it. Bishop singled up the middle, took third when Brice reached on thirdbaseman Anderson's throwing error, and scored on Billy's passed ball.

Coaches agree, AV wins easily

Both Amador High track coach Tony Bright and Granada High mentor Bill Wooten agreed on one thing: The Dons track squad did a whale of a job.

The result of the Dons outstanding effort was a surprisingly easy 76½-59½ win over the Matadors yesterday in Pleasanton.

The victory put Amador ledger at 3-1 with San Ramon, currently perched atop the league standings, to face tommorow at the Wolves oval. Granada meanwhile dropped to 1-2 and will face Livermore tommorow on their own track.

In junior varsity action the young Dons posted a 76½-59½ win over Granada. The visitors from Livermore did not go away empty-handed as the girls team came out with a 66-34 win.

The real story of the meet was the field events where Amador allowed Granada but 8 points in six events.

Andy Finn led the Amador domination as he won the high jump to go along with his first place in the triple jump. Finn also contributed a third in the long jump.

Finn's jump of 6-4 led the way in the high jump, while teammate Frank Heim leaped 6-2. The 6-7 Cal Poly bound senior won the triple jump with a fine 43-5 jump and placed behind George Haas and Kurt Hermann as the Purple and Gold swept the long jump.

Roger Brothers led an Amador sweep of the discus as he tossed the platter 138-0. Bruce Bynum copped top honors in the shot-put when he heaved the ball 46-11.

Danny King was a triple winner for the Mats, but his effor were not enough to overcome the sickness that led to Granada's demise.

King booked a fine 10.0 100 yard dash and returned to win the 220 in a South County best 22.5.

The Dons fine junior Mike Croteau finished second in both races, and was running stride for stride with King in the mile relay when King brushed up against him and Croteau dropped the baton.

Rich Antal, Renne Parra and Kevin Loughman ran the first three legs of that squad which booked a fleet 3:33.0 time.

Smiles, frowns in softball

Comedy and controversy reigned supreme in EBAL girls softball yesterday afternoon as Dublin outran San Ramon, 14-9, and Amador Valley came back to top Granada, 14-11.

The Gaels' victory was even more one-sided than it looked as, with two out in the final inning and ahead by eight runs, Dublin pitcher Gail Willard whipped a wild pitch that sailed over the backstop.

Strangely no ground rules prevented it, so three Wolf runners dashed home while the ball rolled to the track.

The pitch was not typical of Willard's day on the mound, however, as she struck out three while going the distance to get the win, Dublin's third of the season.

In addition to Gail's fine day on the hill, a trio of Dublin batters had noteworthy games.

Darlene Gray had the type of day most players only dream about, going 3-for-4 at the plate and making three fantastic catches to quell Wolf rallies.

Gray cracked a double and triple and scored two runs. The double came with bases loaded in the third and gave the Gael rightfielder a total of five runs-produced on the afternoon.

Leftfielder Bunny Hodhkinson went also went 3-for-4 and scored two runs while catcher Deanna Galant had 2-for-3 with two walks and threw out two SR runners who were attempting to steal.

San Ramon was not without its bright spots as Cindy Campbell laced three hits and Lisa Tarabina scored two runs and did an outstanding defensive job at third base.

In the other game Amador Valley remained undefeated at the cost of the loss of Granada coach Ann Krummes respect.

According to Krummes, Granada's pitcher became unnerved by Don heckling and had to be relieved as the roof caved in on the Mats during the sixth inning.

Amador Valley coach Vivian Kaler's husband, who coaches third for the Dons, was removed from the game by the umpires, but Krummes believes that the damage had been done.

"The average age on my team is 16. The players aren't use to that sort of abuse or that sort of language and it upset them," she said, adding that she will take the incident before EBAL commisioner Sam Zackheim for review.

In actual play, four Don players smacked extra base hits. Cindy Aafedt, Debbie Oxsen and Robin Dina each had one double while Sue Perrigo cracked a double and a triple.

For the Mats, Wendy Peterson had a pair of singles as did Cheryl Wood. Lynn Bosliman nailed a single and a double.

Vaughn Landrum of LLLRA tripled.

Livermore Locker scored two runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to overhaul Alden Lane, 5-4. Mark Potter, Terry Pehrson and Sig Csicsery all lashed singles in the winning rally. James Moore had /an earlier triple.

Granada Hardware jumped ahead, 8-1 after two innings, and beat Sunset Homes, 12-2. Jon Malson, Brial Loll and Chita Bacigalupi all hit safely for the winners. Sunset's Mark Schimmel made a fine catch.

The Livermore Police clobbered Acme Trophies, 16-9, slapping 11 base hits. Steve Buys drove in two runs with a single and triple. Jeff Holder doubled twice. Acme's Stewart Serpanchy tripled.

Dublin

McDonald's checked the Alameda County Sheriffs on three hits to earn an 8-3 victory in Dublin minor league baseball last weekend.

Dan Bolmen and Chris Molz doubled for the winners. The Deputies' Aaron Bowers had two singles, and Robert Usry doubled.

Dublin Auto Supply revved up to beat Diablo Engine and Machine, 20-11. Jeff Cunningham doubled and singled twice, and Terry Bickmore singled and doubled.

Star Television outlasted Straw Hat Pizza, 10-8. Scott Russell had three straight hits, and Jesse Chavez doubled.

In a training game, Dolan Lumber beat Seven-Eleven, 28-11, and Rubber Enterprizes beat Michel's Pastry, 17-16.

Pleasanton National

Covey's Mobil survived a seven-run sixth inning barrage by Elby's Auto Supply to earn an 11-8 victory in Pleasanton National major league baseball last week.

Good pitching by Rodger Walli and David Ferguson sealed the triumph. Chris Lopez led the Brave offense with a double and triple and two runs batted in. Chuck Cox singled and doubled and drove home another run.

For the Padres, Monte Hanna and Mike Risso both collected two RBI's. Chris Gaeckle singled home a run.

Hoenig swims to prep award

Chris Hoenig, who was involved in two record setting swim performances over the weekend, was named Alameda County Prep of the Week today.

The Granada High swimmer will receive the Flecto Sports Award from the sponsoring Flecto Co. of Oakland.

Hoenig won two individual events, and shared in a relay victory as Granada dominated the EBAL swim championships last weekend at Dublin High.

Hoenig established a league mark in the 500 freestyle with a 4:57.7 time. He also swam for the victorious 400 free relay squad that set a new mark of 3:27.6.

Chris finished the day with a victory in the 200 invidual medley.

Contra Costa's outstanding prep was Campolindo swimmer Richard Thornton who won the Foothill Athletic League 200 freestyle title in 1:47.2, and the 500 free in 4:43.4. Neither were personal bests for the son of University of California swim coach Nort Thornton

Net teams blank foes

Two established EBAL girls tennis teams posted shutouts over the league's newer schools yesterday afternoon.

Monte Vista downed Foothill 5-0 as Liz Moulds and Jani Cronin each recorded 6-0, 6-0 wins in singles as no Falcon could win more than five games.

The final count in games was MV 60, Foothill 13.

Livermore dumped California by an identical score. However, the match was played closer as the Cowgirls held just a 61-23 edge in games.

Leslie Harrison and Cindy Custer were both impressive singles winners as was the doubles team of Robin Day and Mary Schall.

In the other EBAL match-up, Amador came back from a brief deficit to thump Granada 4-1.

After Cathy Corallo gave the Matadors a short-lived lead with a 6-2, 6-3 win in first singles, Karen Kulink fought from behind to top Granada's Dana Sorem, 4-6, 6-3, 7-5 and tie the match.

Denise Crall then gave AV the lead with a 7-6, 6-2 win over a game Terry Coelho.

Granada's second doubles team of Gretchen Lyle and Kathy Steinhaus extended Lisa Estrada and Kathy Velner to a tie-breaker in the closing stages of the match, before losing.

Amador had a total games advantage of 60-48 in what was one of the closes matches of the current season to date.

Don JV's one back of first

Amador Valley moved to within one game of first place Granada with a 9-4 win over the visiting Mats in EBAL junior varsity baseball yesterday.

The Dons' Bill Koopmann upped his record to 5-1 with the win as he fanned nine while walking eight and allowing just two hits. Most of Koopmann's walks were given up from a wind-up with no one on, so he eventually went to a stretch for the remainder of the game, regardless of the situation.

The hurler drove in three runs and scored another in a hectic first inning, in which the Dons gained the lead for good. He also had a sacrifice fly to score Rick Garcia in the next inning.

Mike Conley and Dan Straface each drove in a pair of runs with one-baggers in the third to complete the AV scoring.

Amador used 17 players, enabling subs Scott Vaughn and Rick Burroughs to swat extra base hits. Vaughn had a double, Burroughs a triple.

Bob Parness, who pitched nearly the entire game in relief of Granada starter Jeff Cox, also cracked an extra-base blow.

Gaels, SR split twinbill

The Dublin and San Ramon High frosh baseball teams split a doubleheader, made necessary by rain-outs, yesterday afternoon.

The first game was a heartbreaker for the Wolves as Dublin got all its run in the sixth inning due to a trio of errors, depriving SR hurler Guy Houston of a possible shutout. Houston struck out 13 Gael hitters while walking just four and giving up just two hits, but got the loss in the 3-2 contest.

Winning pitcher Gary Reshes also had a fine game as he fanned six, walked three and gave up a mere pair of safeties.

SR took the second game, 10-7, behind the six hit pitching of Paul Fisch, who walked only one and whiffed two.

Fisch, who went 2-for-5, and Rowdy Corrick, 2-for-2 with a triple were the hitting stars.

The Wolves are now 6-3 while Dublin slipped to 2-8.

Valley Music Festival slated for May 10

More than 790 sixth, seventh and eighth graders from Livermore, Pleasanton, San Ramon Unified and Murray school districts will participate in the First Valley Music Festival on May 10 at Dublin High School.

Each of the 14 groups will perform for 10 minutes in this noncompetitive event, staged solely for musical listening pleasure. "The festival is not a contest. The purpose is to give the students an opportunity to play for and listen to each other," says Betty Riggs, Murray School District Coordinator.

Performing from 10:30 a.m. to noon will be the Wells intermediate Band, Junction Avenue Concert Band, Junction Avenue 7th Grade chorus, Harvest Park Chorus, Nielsen Concert Band, Wells Intermediate Chorus, and the Los Cerros Jazz Band.

After a lunch break, Los Cerros Chorus, Junction Avenue Chorus, Los Cerros Concert Band, Wells Intermediate Concert Band, Harvest Park Chorus, Junction Avenue Boys' Chorus, and the Livermore District Jazz Band will perform from 12:45 to 2:30 p.m.

The public is invited at no cost to hear these local bands perform, although contributions will be appreciated.
